Adam Sulewski
Trade Representative
U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP)

Mr. Sulewski is a trade enforcement professional who develops and implements projects that significantly improve trade enforcement and enable legitimate trade and travel.

During his first seven years with U.S. Customs & Border Protection, Mr. Sulewski established 11 Customs Mutual Assistance Agreements with various countries. He was part of the delegation that review NAFTA and educated other CBP's trade enforcement and facilitation roles. Additionally, he helped develop a trade enforcement and facilitation course at the US Department of State's Foreign Service Institute.

Mr. Sulewski is interested in learning more about private sector efforts to expand into Mexico, and how U.S. Customs & Border Protection can better provide education and outreach to businesses that plan to start exporting to the US.
